Hi Jim,

Our offices are closed today and tomorrow and we are all home staying safe awaiting Sandy's landfall.

That said I have copied Alisha on this email in case she is able to help.

Sorry I can't do more today.

Best,
Julia

Julia:

Thanks for your email from last Thursday. I'd be happy to discuss this matter with you further.

In the meantime, I'd like to ask you for a comment on another subject.

I'm doing a story based on a letter an attorney with Range Resources has sent to Dr. Al Armendariz, former EPA Region 6 administrator, concerning comments he made regarding Range. A copy of the letter was sent to Director Lisa Jackson and I would like to give Ms Jackson or a spokesperson an opportunity to respond to this letter.

I'm attaching the letter to this email. I'd appreciate it if you or the appropriate spokesperson could get in touch with me by calling me at 713-658-3229 or replying to this email.

Thanks for your response. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Jim this was incredibly comprehensive and helpful. I've actually been thinking about it and I'd like to talk with you about it. Nothing urgebt, just generally solving the search engine and real time news issues for the entire world.

I believe I still owe you some fracking follow up. Would you let me know where you are in that story and if and what you need from EPA on Friday on it.

I'll be out of the office but on BB until 1PM, so don't worry if you don't hear from me right away before the afternoon. But let me know so I can move it to the program folks as early as possible. Being Friday and all.

Thanks so much,

Julia

Julia:

I've asked one of our Alert editors why you weren't able to access the updated version of the updated Pavillion story I wrote yesterday and this is what I've learned.

You've accessed the original Alert through Platts.com, our public website. The web editors who maintain Platts.com select only a fraction of the hundreds of Alerts we publish every day to post them on this website. So when you searched for the Alert on Pavillion, you were able to access the original Alert, but not the update.

The only way to be sure that you have access to all of the Alerts we publish every day would be to buy a subscription.

As you can see from the attachment to my previous email, we did post the updated version of the Alert as soon as we were able to.

In addition, I'm attaching a PDF of today's issue of Gas Daily, which includes the version of the Pavillion story with your comments.

We take very seriously our obligation to present both sides of every story we cover, particularly when one party is making detrimental statements about another party, which was the case in this instance. As you can see, we've fulfilled that obligation in as timely a manner as possible.

I hope this answers your concerns about this issue. If you would like to discuss this further, please contact me by calling me at 713-658-3229.

I look forward to continue working with you in the future to our mutual benefit.

Jim

Julia:

We posted an update to the story, with your comments included at 2:07 p.m. Eastern time yesterday. In addition, my daily story, which ran in at least one of our daily newsletters, included your comments. So I'm not sure what you're looking at when you say that story says EPA did not respond. Please call me at 713-658-3229 or reply to this email if you'd like to discuss this further. Jim

Noticed that your story still says epa did not respond. When we spoke this afternoon you said that it had been sent to your editor, maybe ed didn't get it updated yet? Wanted to make sure you knew.
